WBAI 99.5 FM FOLIO

DECEMBER/HOLIDAY 1995

THE 24TH ANNUAL

WBAI HOLIDAY CRAFTS FAIR '95

REPORT TO THE LISTENER

Valerie van Isler, General Manager

"NOT TO KNOW IS BAD. NOT TO WANT TO KNOW IS WORSE. NOT TO HOPE IS UNTHINKABLE... NOT TO CARE IS UNFORGIVABLE." African Proverb

This holiday edition of the WBAI Folio extends our best wishes to you and your loved ones for a peaceful and happy season. For many years, an important part of this tradition has been the WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair. The Directory for this Silver Anniversary Fair listing all the artists and exhibitors is included in this December program guide. Please join us for one of the best events of the New York Holiday season at Ferris Booth Hall on the Columbia University campus for the two weekends of December 8-10 and 15-17, 1995. And come by our authors' table and meet some of our outstanding producers and writers like Gary Null, Amy Goodman, Bernard White, Phyllis Bennis, Prof. Michio Kaku and many others.

During the past two months, we have been very busy with our studio renovation project which is part of the WBAI Equipment Campaign begun about a year ago. Our project engineers have been working day and night–on weekdays and weekends–to construct the studio spaces and install the new equipment which we so desperately needed and never had until this year with the success of our campaign. The target date to complete the entire project is the end of December. We want to start the new year with the new sound of WBAI-Pacifica Radio in New York. And there is another very important reason as well.

We are now preparing for the first $1 Million Membership Drive in WBAI's history. This has never been done before and we know it's not an impossible dream or unrealizable mission. We set several community radio benchmarks this past year and we want to improve that record even more in 1996. Your generous support as a listener and member of the station is the critical factor in the success of this historic membership campaign. With our new equipment and the kind of exciting and dynamic programming which only WBAI can do, we believe that we will set another record for community broadcasting. As a member, you are always the key to our survival and success. Please be there for us as we bring you extraordinary programs for an extraordinary time in January and throughout the new year. In a time of mega-mergers and broadcast monopolies, it is more important than ever for WBAI to remain an independent institution and an active voice which will always challenge power with truth.

A special thanks to many of our listeners who have called or written about their response to some of the new programs on our air. There was particular interest and very positive reaction to the expanded TalkBack! show with hosts Utrice Leid and Santiago Nieves; We the People with ex-Governor Jerry Brown and Dr. Helen Caldicott for her Monday evening program on the environment. And there was some concern from others about their favorite series changing time slots or not being in the regular schedule. At WBAI, we are trying to bring you not only the best in community broadcasting, but the best in any media. Finally, all of us at WBAI wish you the blessings of the holiday season and our best for the new year.

A memorial for longtime WBAI producer Lex Hixon will be held early in December; please call WBAI at 212-279-0707 for details. See Monday's listing page for a remembrance by Paul Gorman, and Folio requests additional memories of Lex for our next issue.

A memorial tribute to Abe & Debbie Weisburd will be held on December 10. See the Tuesday listings for details.

Arab Voice and Crescent Rising

Saturdays at 3 with hosts Dr. Barbara Nimri Aziz and Mahmoud Ibrahim

If you have been awaiting Tahrir, Voices of the Arab World, we're back on listener-sponsored radio, but in a new format with more voices on more issues.

Our new Saturday show will be devoted to the tri-state Arab and Muslim communities and for all concerned with social issues.

We have big ambitions, for example, Rising will:

- introduce personalities from our communities to the public
- interview artists, educators, and community leaders
- sponsor on-air discussions on topics of concern to the Muslim and Arab peoples here and abroad
- look at issues of community life, immigrant history, and education
- review books and speak with authors
- inform ourselves about African Muslims in the USA
- provide a voice for the Arab Muslim peoples here and abroad
- open up the phones to you, our listeners

Tune in for the first show, December 2nd, when we'll hear interviews from Aziz's recent visit to the Palestinian cities of Nablus and Ramallah, excerpts from the Bosnia Rally, and poems by our late brother Suleiman Al-Hadi and a report on the Conference of Islamic Educators held in Newark, New Jersey

AFRIKALEIDOSCOPE

Saturdays from 4-6:30 p.m.
Elombe Brath & Diabel Faye

Elombe Brath has been involved with the liberation struggle for African people for nearly forty years. The co-chair of the mammoth 1990 Harlem reception for Nelson and Winnie Mandela, Elombe also emceed the rally for Fidel Castro in October at Abyssinian Baptist Church (pictures and more details in next month's Folio.) He was a consultant on African Affairs for Gil Noble's Like It Is, WABC-TV's Black public affairs program. For many years, Elombe Brath has presented Afrikaleidoscope on WBAI, and in December he will be joined by Diabel Faye in a new, expanded timeslot. Elombe told Folio,

"With the additional time, we'll be able to reflect in depth the experience of the African people throughout the world. I am an African internationalist activist, and have fought for the rights of people of color since I was 12, in 1948. The show will relate to today, presenting the truthful experiences and daily lives both in Africa and in America. Music, including many live performers, will be an important part of the show. Music is more than a commercial product; it functions as ceremony and commemoration. We must maintain the culture in the Diaspora."

Diabel Faye added, "I learned to love the music while growing up in Africa, and have now spent ten years developing a relationship with African musicians in New York. I've worked with clubs, festivals, and record companies, keeping the bands together and promoting the music, and now I'm happy to bring authentic African music to WBAI's airwaves."

Live From the Upper West Side

Sunday mornings from 11 until noon, Mike Feder's new show. Mike asked Folio to pass along these words.

Dear Listeners

After several hundred shows and close to sixteen years on the air, I've decided to change the nature of my show. Gone (well, almost gone), will be the self-referential ramblings and spontaneous sermons I've specialized in for all this time and in their place I'm going to concentrate on interviewing authors of current books live from Shakespeare & Co. at 81st and Broadway. The interview show (Sunday mornings at an earlier time, 11 a.m. - noon) will cover a pretty wide range of topics: to name a few: psychology, politics, history, poetry, literature, art... So, you ask. "Mike, what's new about this? You've interviewed authors before." First, let me say, I don't appreciate your cynical attitude, and second...True, I have interviewed authors before—but this time you are invited to rouse yourselves from your apartments and come down to see the show live at Shakespeare.

My apologies to all my listeners who look forward to my stories and soliloquies, but I feel like I need a change and I hope you can all come along for the ride.

12/3 Nora Sayre film critic and author of the new book is Previous Convictions, a Journey Through the 1950s

12/10 Stanley Crouch, Village Voice writer, music critic, and author of All American Skin Thief

12/17 Lewis Lapham, Editor, Harper's Magazine and Hotel America

Nora Sayre, pictured at left, will be the first guest (12/3) on Mike Feder's new show, Live from the Upper West Side on Sundays from 11 a.m.-noon

Public Affairs Director Mario Murillo (left) and Gonzalo Aburto, who starts a new show Rock en Español Tuesdays from 10 a.m.-noon

New Programs

Diabel Faye on Music, History, and Family

Elombe Brath

Diabel Faye is joining Elombe Brath to produce the new Afrikaleidescope, 4 p.m. on Saturdays. He gave Folio these thoughts about the music.

In Africa, being a griot is your license to play music. Each non-griot family has their own griot. The griots of my forefathers stuck with my family for centuries, passing our stories and history from generation to generation. My parents knew that our society depended on the musicians. To some extent, the social trauma our countries are suffering is because we are overlooking the oral tradition that bound us together. The griots who had our history in their heads are no longer respected, and as they died, our family history fades out. Show me an African who cannot speak his mother tongue and I will show you an African who does not know about himself. Because his history is said through that language, a Ph.D. won't help. I advise you to go to your family griot and put him on tape because so much damage already has been done.

I am a "gueere", so according to tradition I am not allowed to play music, but the first time I went to a modern concert with a big stage, loud speakers, and electrical wires everywhere, I became fascinated. I would follow musicians from rehearsals to the smallest gigs, and listened to the radio shows from many countries. Musicians from different countries learned from each other (and successful Afro-Americans like James Brown), and so the music of the Fulani, Serere, Wolof and many others gave rise to Afrobeat. In Dakar, I made friends with many musicians who revolutionized the music.

In America, with few exceptions, African musicians must do odd jobs to survive, despite being part of a billion dollar industry. We are only on stage, while the managers, the record company staff, and most of the media are not African. I've been at after-concert parties where even the musicians who performed were pushed around by bouncers, not treated with the respect they deserved. I've done everything I could to support the musicians, from helping find gigs to lending my personal rent money to a band to pay for a rehearsal studio. I've organized regular jam sessions where musicians can play together, coordinated festivals around the country, worked with Island Records, and tried to master (and change) the complex financial relationships in the industry. We must fill in the gaps, and make musician's working conditions more acceptable.

The Pen American Center presents a

A Tribute to Arthur Miller on his 80th Birthday.

Monday, 12/11 at 10:00 p.m.

On October 30, the voices of Carlos Fuentes, Edward Albee, John Guare, and others came together to pay tribute to this playwright, a man who challenged the system over and over. As Carlos Fuentes says, "Arthur Miller's theater renews his faith in an America caught in the trappings of a revolution of privilege posing as fiscal responsibility." Join Peggy Dominique and share this special moment.

Xmas Day

Special programming on Christmas Day

6-10 a.m. Sidney Smith presents Xmas Day with the Radio On

10-noon A Shortcut to the North Pole produced by Peter Bochan

noon-4 p.m. The X-Xmas Show Here we go again! It's time for the annual, state mandated celebration of consumerism. Of course, today is just the peak of many months of corporate planning and social conditioning. (And how's your consumer confidence today?)

Do you think it's fair that our culture expects you to genuflect to the free market enterprises that attempt to control our minds through brutal and relentless advertising? Don't you think it strange that all of this marketing is couched in the soft and fluffy appearance of a religious holiday?

Wake up on December 25th and don't celebrate Xmas. You deserve better! Join the resistance to this pathetic so-called holiday, tune in to the X-Xmas Show. This parody of Santa, Jesus, and Macy's will offer a place to hang out for those people who feel like they're going to snap if they hear one more version of Silent Night. Produced by Paul Ruest and Steve Ward

4-6 Religious Folk Music with Bill Canaday. Spirituals, Gospel, Soul, and Jazz. Music from African-American and European Sources

8-10 p.m. Circle of Red Nations featuring a look at Native American spirituality

Farewell Lex Hixon

As Folio went to press, we learned of the loss of WBAI programmer Lex Hixon to cancer. We hope his friends will contribute remembrances and pictures for the next issue of Folio, in which we plan a longer tribute. (Please contact Folio editor Dave Burstein at WBAI by the first week in December). Paul Gorman provided a few thoughts:

From 1971-1984, Lex Hixon produced In the Spirit, one of the most remarkable and certainly unique programs in WBAI's long history. Religious and spiritual life have never been Pacifica program staples. With In the Spirit, however, Lex brought to life most of the planet's great wisdom and faith traditions, presented with dignity and clarity, in conversation with teachers from all over the world. Lex himself was a "devotional religious scholar", intimately acquainted with world faith traditions as an author of seven books, a teacher, and a practitioner. He communicated from the "inside out" — inside his own studies and personal practice, inside the great texts, inside the authentic life of authentic spiritual communities. Many, many listeners testified, over these years, that Lex — and the station through him — had affirmed and nourished aspirations otherwise ignored or stereotyped by society. In tribute to his passing, Allen Ginsberg said. "From his years of broadcasting and authorship of volumes of mystic lore, Lex Hixon was a pioneer in the spiritual renaissance in America over the last four decades." He was a spiritual friend and teacher to tens of thousands ... cared deeply about WBAI and its listeners ... and offered many precious jewels in the station's stunningly diverse treasure box of rich gifts. There will be a memorial in early December. Please call WBAI at 212-279-0707 for an exact date and place.

Farewell, Abe & Debbie Weisburd

Abe Weisburd, lifelong radical and veteran journalist at WBAI and the Guardian, a great friend of WBAI, passed away August 2nd at age 88. With gusto, passion, and keen intelligence, Abe contributed his skills to movements for social change all of his life, as did his wife, Debbie, who passed away in 1994 at age 84. Abe and Debbie were deeply involved in solidarity work for Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, and Cuba for over three decades. Abe introduced WBAI to Wilfred Burchett, the renowned Australian correspondent whose work did so much to spark the movement against U.S. intervention in Vietnam. The Weisburds were instrumental in raising the support that enabled Burchett to continue his seminal reporting. During the war, Abe co-founded Trade Unionists for Peace and Debbie represented Teachers for Peace in Vietnam. The Weisburds were strong supporters of the Native American movement, and engaged in education and outreach for Leonard Peltier and the American Indian Movement.

Abe's reporting was wide-ranging, covering prisons, Cuba, and struggles for justice by people of color. Abe worked with the Civil Rights Congress, and in the 1960s (at the suggestion of SNCC,) established White Americans to Support Black Liberation. Debbie, blacklisted from teaching for several years during the McCarthy era, went South and taught at a freedom school. Once members of the American Labor Party and the Communist Party, they both remained lifelong socialists. They were friends of WBAI and all who struggled for justice. Producer's Corner

WBAI producer Phyllis Bennis about her new book

CALLING THE SHOTS: How Washington Dominates Today's UN

The UN's 50th anniversary brought the world's attention to this often-ignored, often-disdained, often-condemned global organization. Since the Gulf war in 1991, the UN has most often been viewed as the scapegoat for local and regional conflicts and crises across the globe. Most of the time, it is "UN failures" that are condemned. What doesn't get talked about very much is the question of power at the UN—and the fact that since its founding in 1945 and until today, U.S. domination of the organization continues, and Washington continues to 'call the shots,' often setting the stage for what are then wrongly described as those "UN failures."

My new book, filled with behind-the-scenes anecdotes and the intrigues of UN politics and personalities, provides a thoroughly different approach. I look first at the UN's history, in which just-released classified documents reveal secret U.S. wiretapping of every delegation to the founding conference in San Francisco. Then I examined how Bush used the Gulf crisis to bring the UN to centerstage of U.S. foreign policy. Subsequent sections examine UN peacekeeping, including how it works, how the U.S. exerts pre-eminent control, and how the widely discussed major failures, in Somalia, Rwanda, Haiti and Bosnia, took shape. The book also analyzes how the UN's new emphasis on peacekeeping, especially its military aspects, strips much-needed funds from desperately under-funded, under-staffed humanitarian, development, health, human rights, and other projects. Finally, Calling the Shots looks at the issues of UN reform and anticipates how a future UN might be shaped for its second hundred years.

Marcus Raskin called Phyllis Bennis "gifted" and added about the book "It is must reading for anyone who cares about international affairs". Professor Richard Falk commented, "A wonderfully realized and crisply presented account"

Benefit for Listener Supported WBAI Radio

Welcome to the 24th Annual

WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair!

With the generous support, much patience and cooperation from the WBAI staff, volunteers, our many talented exhibitors, advice from friends and the experience from the prior 23 years, this, our 24th year, will once again prove to be an enjoyable and successful holiday event. The WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair is one of New York's largest events, and the absolute best event for those searching for the perfect holiday gifts. Coupled with this, the proceeds go to support our non-commercial, listener-sponsored WBAI 99.5 FM radio.

We have selected over 200 craftspeople and artists from across the country who work in varied medias – blown glass, stained glass, leather, fiber wearables, pottery, jewelry, turned wood vessels, photography, clocks and much much more. The WBAI Holiday Crafts Fair runs two consecutive weekends: December 8-10 and December 15-17, Fridays, 5-9 p.m., Saturdays & Sundays 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. Each week the Fair will feature different craftspeople and artists, so plan on attending the Fair both weekends – reduced rates available for both weekends.

While you're there, don't miss:

The Holiday Crafts Fair Raffle (opposite the coat check) with works of art donated by exhibitors.

The WBAI Gift/Author's Table (at the entrance of Wollman Auditorium) with the latest in books, publications, tapes and other station information. Some of your favorite radio personalities will be there as part of the Crafts Fair tradition.

So be a part of it all and give the gift that gives twice – we look forward to seeing you at the 24th Annual Holiday Crafts Fair.

On behalf of the Crafts Community, and WBAI 99.5 FM Radio, thank you for your support and I look forward to meeting you all.

May you have a healthy and happy holiday.

1:00 Carrier Wave with Sydney Smith
12/24) Xmas Eve with the Radio On alternates with
Back of the Book Free Form Live Radio by R. Paul Martin. (fgpw77a@prodigy.com)
12/3 The video portion of our program will be Chapter 156 of our Autumn Serial The Deadly Cult of the Tocks Tap! in which Little Squishy temporarily sabotages the Lotusland Mediocrity device and keeps the electromagnetic spectrum from being completely destroyed.
12/17 In a startling development we find that our Autumn Serial The Deadly Cult of the Tocks Tap! has escaped from the video portion of our program and is insinuating itself into our reality! Can Little Squishy escape the serial and save us!? Pope Weaselpenis XVI says he's taking the next two weeks off because he hates these damned religious holidays.
12/31 Are we even here? If there's no big deal special taking this time slot tonight we'll be around for the New Year, but maybe not for long. We'll celebrate your host's utter failure to find a girlfriend as a part of his still ongoing 1994 Spring Offensive, and see if the Tocks Tap has erased all reality.

3:00 Everything Old Is New Again with David Kenney

New Year's Eve, as the year runs down,
